STOP #2

HOLLAND HARBOR LIGHT

Fun Facts!

 The original wooden lightstation was built here in 1872.

 The present "Big Red" structure was erected in 1907.

 The design reflects the local Dutch influence with its gabled roof.

 Holland has the largest population of Dutch Americans citizens.

 The annual Tulip Time Festival boasts six million tulips across the city.

 Holland is home to De Zwaan, a 250-year-old Dutch windmill.

While You're in Town!

The Van Buren Street Dunes <http://www.miottawa.org/Parks/vbdunes.htm> offers a quick side trip to explore a small piece of west Michigan sand dunes.

A little out of the way but worth the effort is Pigeon Creek Park <https://www.miottawa.org/Parks/pigeon-creek.htm>. We can put the sled and ski hills to good use in June!
